“Play Craps,” New Table Game Approved by Nevada Gaming Commission

Play Craps, an exciting new table game that is faster, friendlier and more comfortable than conventional craps, while retaining the traditional game’s odds, payoffs and wagering opportunities, has been approved by the Nevada Gaming Commission.

The commission’s unanimous approval came during its April meeting in Carson City and followed extensive staff evaluation, field tests in southern Nevada casinos and recommendation for approval by the state Gaming Control Board.

“This game will revitalize the game of craps and introduce it to a new market,” said Michael Christian, game inventor and chairman of Play Craps Inc. “It is craps, but better,” he said.

Play Craps™ is played on a custom table shaped like a blackjack table, but about a quarter larger. The table is the height of a roulette table and seats nine players comfortably with their own chip trays and drink holders.

Players wager on a field that is a recreation of a craps layout and which affords all the betting opportunities of conventional “tub” craps. Instead of players throwing dice, two Diecards™ are dealt by one of two dealers working the game.

Each Diecard™ bears the image of a die face. A roll is made when two Diecards are dealt and placed by the dealer near the center of the table. The game uses 324 Diecards dealt from a continuous shuffle machine.

The number of cards and constant shuffling insures that odds are virtually the same as conventional craps, Christian said. Game stats were established by Gaming Laboratories International and by the Nevada Gaming Control Board staff. “This really does constitute the ‘Good Housekeeping’ seal of approval,” he said.

As there is no dice-handling by players, both the speed of the game and its security are enhanced. The game is less intimidating to new players because no one is “blamed” when a seven-out is thrown and players lose. Like blackjack, players have their own space and can sit comfortably.

“We expect casinos will like this game because it appeals to a new market, is twice as fast, takes up half the space and needs half the personnel of traditional craps,” Christian said.
